

Call for environmental economists, social impact specialists & related experts:

- Full-time positions
- Part-time positions
- Associate experts
- Graduate consultants and
- Intern opportunities

March 2016

Sustain Value is a natural and social capital consulting firm established in 2011. We specialise in supporting private sector clients in valuing and managing their environmental and social impacts. We do so in particular through use of valuation approaches conducted in a cost-effective manner.

James Spurgeon, our lead consultant, has over 20 years project experience quantifying and valuing such impacts for businesses, governments, financial institutions and law firms. Sector coverage includes: mining, oil and gas, power, food & drink, retail, infrastructure, technology, water, property, pharmaceutical, maritime, tourism, transport, advertising and insurance. We also have a major role in helping to write the Natural Capital Protocol and are undertaking a deep dive pilot study to inform it.

To support our growing workload and exciting plans for 2016 we are currently looking to:

- Recruit new staff on a part-time and/or full-time basis.
- Extend our network of supporting Associate experts.
- Expand our pool of graduate assistants (in paid and unpaid/intern roles) helping on an ad hoc basis.

Key focus areas currently include conducting and investigating: natural and social capital assessments, ecosystem services assessments, Environmental and Social Profit and Loss Accounts, Integrated Reporting, Net Positive Assessments; evaluating offsets, and water valuation studies.

In particular, we are seeking environmental economists and social impact specialists. However, we are also interested in others with complementary skills and experience, including for example: ecologists, accountants, sociologists, IT experts, computer programmers, hydrologists, and LCA, GIS and remote sensing experts etc.

We are interested in hearing from people at all levels, from recent BSc and current MSc graduates to those with 10 to 20+ years experience. Key requirements include an excellent academic record, relevant experience, flexibility and commitment. Innovation, entrepreneurial and language skills would be an added bonus.

Although based in the UK, our work is global in nature. We operate using a virtual office, so all roles may be undertaken remotely, anywhere in the world.

We provide excellent project opportunities and exceptional career prospects as a dynamic and growing niche company in this rapidly evolving field.

If interested in any role, please look at www.sustainvalue.co.uk and send a CV and covering letter to james.spurgeon@sustainvalue.co.uk. There is no deadline, but the sooner the better.